LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

To His Excellency, the Honorable Richard W. Riley, Governor of South Carolina, and to The Honorable Members of the General Assembly of South Carolina:

It is again with pleasure that I submit to you the annual report of the South Carolina State Library. As is by now a library tradition "never has so much been accomplished by so few with so little." (Apologies to Winston Churchill.) In these difficult days of financial uncertainty, the Library has maintained high standards and increased informational service to State government, State agencies and the county libraries.

We are delighted with the passage of the Documents Depository Legislation which will ensure the preservation of State publications and give more citizens access to them. The interlibrary loan service has been expanded to the college and TEC libraries as well this year. The State Library accepted an invitation to join the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries, continuing the regional and national recognition that the State Library has received.

Thanks to the Harvin Amendment we will be able to increase our acquisitions next year which will benefit the entire state library system.

Respectfully submitted,

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

I. Administration

Agency Director:

The Agency Director is the State Librarian who is responsible for the operation of the South Carolina State Library. She is employed by and is responsible to the Board of the State Library.

A. General Administration

Plans development and extension of library service; establishes and reviews policies; prepares and administers the annual budget; administers State and Federal aid for libraries; promotes the extension and improvement of library service; recommends library legislation.

B. Library Interpretation

Interprets the objectives and functions of the statewide library program; plans and carries out a statewide program of publicity and public relations designed to publicize the library and its service to the general public.

II. Technical Services

Acquires and makes available all materials used in the library program; catalogs and classifies books, serials, pamphlets, and non-book materials; purchases and receives all materials; receives, stores and distributes periodicals and newspapers; classifies and/or catalogs all State and Federal documents received; prepares all materials for use; and maintains the book collection; is responsible for the microfilming of the entire catalog of the State Library. Uses SOLINET computer bibliographic network for cataloging, interlibrary loan and reference service; monitors development of state data base and retrospective conversion projects.

III. Field Services

A. General Field Service

Fosters the development and improvement of public library services; assists local officials, librarians and citizens through visits, surveys and correspondence; provides consultant service in planning of public and institutional library buildings; advises with architects and librarians on planning new library facilities; plans workshops and training programs; supervises the distribution of State Aid and other grant programs; monitors all local library projects funded from federal funds administered by the South Carolina State Library.

B. Career Education

Provides training opportunities for public and institutional library employees; plans and supervises the certification program for public librarians.

C. Library Services for the Disadvantaged

Provides consultant service to local libraries engaged in, or planning, projects in this area; supervises local projects; reports on and evaluates the program.

Provides a film loan service to qualifying public and institutional libraries and training in use of films as a means of extending the informational resources of the local library.

E. Library Services for Children

Provides assistance and training for public library staffs to enable them to better serve children and parents. Coordinates the Early Childhood Education Media Clearinghouse.

IV. Reader Services

A. General Reader Service

Provides reference and research services to State Government, State Government agencies, and State employees. Maintains and services state and federal document collection; administers state publications depository system. Selects books and other materials to be added to the general reference collection; prepares and publishes a monthly bibliography of new acquisitions and prepares special bibliographies and checklist of State documents.

B. Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service

Serves as the central unit for a statewide interlibrary loan network to supplement local library resources; supplies materials and answers reference requests for libraries throughout the state; supervises In-WATS and TWX communications network; provides consultant service to local libraries in the maintenance of a strong reference collection; plans and provides workshops to increase the effectiveness of pre-professional library employees engaged in reference service.

C. Interlibrary Cooperation

Promotes cooperative activities and sharing of resources by all South Carolina libraries. Plans and develops computer-based statewide library network to facilitate sharing of library resources and services.

V. Service to the Blind and Physically Handicapped

Plans and administers library service to the blind and physically handicapped; maintains liaison with the Library of Congress's National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped; maintains records of eligible borrowers and of materials and equipment on loan; provides guidance to readers in selection of books; supervises five browsing collections of talking books in local public libraries; conducts public information program to make potential users aware of service.

VI. Institutional Services

Plans and administers a program to establish, develop and improve library service in State institutions; supervises the library program in individual institutions and provides consultant service for library development in all institutions. Monitors federally funded grant-in-aid projects.

Historical Synopsis

For thirty-three years, the state library agency of South Carolina was headed by Estellene P. Walker, first as Executive Secretary of the State Library Board (1946-1968) and then as State Librarian (1968-1979). Under her leadership, the small public library extension agency grew into the South Carolina State Library which serves State Government, libraries, the blind and physically handicapped, and the general public. Following her retirement in 1979, Miss Walker compiled and edited a library history, "So Good and Necessary a Work": The Public Library in South Carolina, 1698-1980. The historical synopsis which follows is an excerpt from that history, published by the State Library in 1981.

The present library program in this state began in the 1920's and is largely the result of the interest, energy and determination of Mary E. Frayser who spared no effort to establish a library program and to bring books and reading to the people of the state. Miss Frayser, a rural sociologist engaged in the agricultural extension program at Winthrop, left no stone unturned until the state had a good public library law and had authorized the establishment of a state library extension agency. Miss Frayser was ably assisted by Lucy Hampton Bostick of the Richland County Library and Charlotte Templeton of the Greenville Public Library. In 1929 legislation was enacted permitting counties, townships, and municipal corporations to establish public libraries by a majority vote and to levy a tax of up to two mills for their support. A State Library extension agency was authorized but not funded. In 1934 the public library law was extended to permit the establishment of regional library systems.

Although no funds were appropriated by the legislature to activate the State Library extension agency which it had authorized, a board was appointed which had the right to accept gifts and endowments. With a grant from the Rosenwald Foundation matched by contributions from members of the South Carolina Library Association, a fund was raised which provided $5,000 a year for a period of three years to allow the State Library Board to employ a field agent, rent office space, and provide travel funds. The mission of the field agent was the development of public libraries in the state, and in furthering this objective, she traveled throughout the state, held conferences and institutes to discuss library topics, produced booklists to guide in book selection and supplied publicity to newspapers to create an understanding of the benefits of public library service to the general public. The first field agent was Miss Parmelee Cheves who served from 1929 to 1932. Miss Cheves kept the idea of public library service on a county-wide basis alive even though most of her work was of necessity done with municipal and township libraries.

As far back as 1698 Dr. Thomas Bray in an essay supporting a plan for the establishment of libraries in the colonies had set the pattern for the development of South Carolina's present county library program. In Dr. Bray's essay he said, "Standing libraries will signify little in the Country, where Persons must ride some miles to look into a Book; such journeys being too expensive of Time and Money, but Lending Libraries which come home to 'em without Charge, may tolerably well supply the Vacancies in their own Studies . . ."

Three important steps in the development of statewide library service took place during the 1930's. Soon after the enactment of legislation allowing the establishment of county library systems, two of South Carolina's counties, Richland and Charleston, were chosen by the Rosenwald Foundation for county library demonstrations. In 1930 the Charleston County Library received $80,000 and the Richland County Library $75,000 for five year demonstrations of county-wide service. The success of these demonstrations emphasized the feasibility of the county as a unit of service and influenced the development of the public library program in the entire state.

On January 4-5, 1934 a landmark citizens' conference on the library needs of South Carolina was held at Clemson College. The meeting was called by the President of Clemson in cooperation with the State Library Board and the State Library Association. It brought together leaders from throughout the state to plan and adopt a program for public library development. Serving as the basis of discussion was a bulletin which had just been published by Clemson College on the Libraries of South Carolina, by Mary E. Frayser of the Agricultural Extension Staff. Following this conference the South Carolina Citizens' Library Association was organized. In 1938 with E. R. Jeter of Rock Hill as President, the Citizens' Association was able to secure funds with which it brought into the state Dr. Helen Gordon Stewart, an internationally known authority on public library extension, to organize a campaign for State Aid and win support for an active State Library agency. Dr. Stewart began her work in 1939 and traveled throughout the state developing citizen interest in behalf of library development and State Aid. Her work came to an end when the legislature failed to provide funds for the proposed new program. In the midst of the Great Depression funds were simply not available to fund the program.

In 1935 when a statewide library project under the WPA was initiated in South Carolina, the state had no active library extension agency to plan the program and for that reason the project was planned and operated by the WPA itself with the objective of providing in each county of the state some measure of area wide public library service. When the WPA project was initiated there were only three counties in the state with county-wide library service. There were eighteen local libraries with incomes with at least $1,000 and twelve others receiving at least "some" support from public funds. There were twenty-one counties without a tax supported library in their borders.

Mrs. Margaret D. Davies was in charge of women's programs under the WPA and her interest in libraries and in finding employment for women resulted in the state WPA library project. Mrs. Davies sought the aid of Miss Fanny Taber, then president of the South Carolina Library Association, in locating and employing a librarian who could plan, organize and get the project started. Miss Taber chose Miss Ida Bell Entreken (now Mrs. Ambrose Wiley). In six weeks Miss Entreken managed to establish an office, plan a program, make the necessary local contacts and had the show on the road by the first of January 1936. it was a phenomenal job and the excellence of the planning done then benefits the statewide library program to this day. From the beginning, the basic objective of the WPA library program was to extend library service to the entire state with the hope that this service would be continued with local support at the close of the demonstration.

The State Library Supervisor served somewhat in the capacity of a State Library extension agency in planning, supervising and stimulating library development. Carrying out the program were district and area supervisors and supervisors of individual units. It was a streamlined organization with direct channels of authority. The training program provided by the project to prepare employees for library work was successful not only in providing this training but also in instilling real pride in the work being done. This pride in the program and its achievements carried over into library development long after the WPA library program had come to an end.

The WPA library program* in South Carolina spread the benefits of federal library aid to all the counties of the state. Bookmobiles were purchased and put out into operation in twenty-three counties formerly without rural service. Libraries were established or strengthened in many of the counties in the state and public library service in some form was made available in every county. In 1943 when the WPA project closed, many of the public libraries established under the project were continued on local tax support. Of great benefit to the continuing library program in the state were library employees who had been trained under the WPA and were able to take over and operate successfully the new library programs.

* During eight years of operation (1935-1943) the WPA Library Project in South Carolina had four directors; Ida Belle Entrekin — 1935-37; Agnes Crawford — 1937-1939; Roberta Benoit — 1939-1940; Nancy C. Blair — 1940-1943.

In 1943 when the statewide WPA library program came to an end, the State Library Board was able to secure an appropriation of $3,000 to establish a State Library Board office and fund a program for the last third of the fiscal year — March through June 1943. The legislature appropriated $15,000 to fund the program for the next fiscal year, 1943-44. Nancy Blair who had been State Director of the WPA library program became the first Executive Secretary of the South Carolina State Library Board and served in that capacity until 1946. An office was established with a parttime secretary. Transportation was provided by a station wagon inherited from the WPA and converted into a bookmobile. The bookstock was composed of 25,888 books transferred from the WPA library project. At the time of the establishment of the State Library Board's first office, there were twelve county libraries with professional librarians, fourteen county libraries and one regional library established under the WPA program. There were 879,794 people in South Carolina without public library service. The per capita ownership of books among public libraries was .3 per capita. The total expenditure for public library service was 14¢ per capita.

The State Library Board initiated its program with emphasis on State Aid to public libraries. Of its total appropriation of $15,000, $8,100 was expended for State Aid to county libraries in which twenty-seven counties participated. By this move on the part of the State Library Board the precedent of State Aid to libraries was firmly established in the State. Initially the requirement for participation in State Aid was that the service given by the library be county-wide. The State Aid grant was spent for books alone. In the ensuing years State Aid requirements were developed to ensure the development of sound public library service on a county-wide basis and the best use of both State Aid and local funds in accomplishing this objective. State Aid requirements rather than the funds themselves were of the greater importance in the development of a strong statewide public library program. For years State Aid remained at a minimum level, rising from $300 per county to $1,500 per county in ten years, then from 50¢ per capita to 75¢ per capita in 1981. The State Aid program put a premium on local initiative and responsibility and resulted in public library systems which were locally controlled and drew the major portion of their financial support from local sources. High standards of book selection resulted in collections of carefully chosen books designed to meet the reading needs of a growing reading public. The substandard, out-of-date, and worn out books were eliminated and in their place were purchased authoritative recent books. State Aid requirements the county libraries met gave the state a system of county and regional libraries legally established and in charge of legally appointed boards. The requirements ensured well selected book collections, the provision of reference service and a staff with the training and experience required to administer and provide library service of a good level.

During the first twelve years of the State Library Board's program emphasis was placed on the extension of public library service and on its legal establishment. The objective was to create a strong legal basis for public library service in the state, to emphasize local initiative and local support and to create an understanding of the benefits of public library service and an acceptance of the cost of that service. By 1956 when the Library Services Act was passed, a sound legal basis and a strong foundation for the development of a statewide program had been achieved. Countywide library service had been established in thirty-eight counties, five of which were members of regional library systems. The total bookstock had increased from .3 per capita to .7 per capita. State Aid had increased from $300 to $1,500 per county and total public library income had increased from 14¢ per capita to 45¢ per capita. Most important of all, local support of library service had increased from 13¢ per capita to 40¢ per capita. The State Library Board itself was better housed than it had been in 1943 occupying space in a State office building. The staff had been increased by the addition of a Field Service Librarian and a Cataloger. The State Library Board enjoyed a good relationship with the legislature and had seen its State support increase over 500% during its twelve years of operation. It had fought and won a major battle against censorship which had gone a long way to ensure freedom to read for the people in the State.

With the enactment of the Library Services Act in 1956, the State Library Board was charged by Governor Timmerman with the responsibility of administering the program in South Carolina. In the ensuing years the State Library Board, now the South Carolina State Library, made remarkable progress in developing state-wide library service. Basic to this successful program was a master plan for library development which aided in the establishment of county and regional libraries which now serve all of the state's forty-six counties. The development of these county library systems eliminated the expensive duplication of more than one public library supported from tax funds in a single county. The present unified library systems, legally established and in the charge of legally appointed boards, by eliminating expensive overhead and duplication, sharing resources and personnel, have been able to provide a good level of service.

One of the problems which the State Library Board had to solve was that of professional staff for the public and institutional libraries of the state. In 1943 there were only twenty-six professionally trained librarians in all of the public libraries and none in institutional libraries. In 1980 there are 157 fully trained professional librarians in the state's thirty-nine public library systems and the institutional libraries are in the charge of qualified staff. This dramatic improvement is directly due to the State Library's state-wide recruiting program, library intern program, scholarship program and grants to county libraries to aid in achieving salary standards.

Library housing was another problem that had to be solved since in 1943 most public libraries were accommodated in makeshift quarters inadequate to provide anything but minimum service. In the ensuing thirty-six years every county in the state renovated or constructed new public library housing. These buildings have included headquarters buildings as well as branch buildings in major county communities. Beginning in 1968 the Library Services and Construction Act, Title II, provided funds towards construction, renovation and additions to public library buildings in the state. Twenty-one county libraries benefitted directly from construction grants. South Carolina's handsome State Library building was constructed under this program.

When the State Library Board's program was initiated, per capita ownership of books in the state was very low — .3 per capita. the total bookstock in all public libraries was 620,550. Today that figure is 3,791,964 and the per capita bookstock has risen to 1.46 per capita, still far below the two per capita goal set by the State Library but an impressive gain over the .3 figure. State Aid, and since 1956 Federal Aid under the Library Services and Construction Act, has contributed largely to this increase in bookstock. Libraries participated in book collection improvement projects, periodical projects, and other book projects designed to help them build well selected collections of books and to maintain them in good condition.

In 1969 the State Library Board became the S. C. State Library. During Governor Strom Thurmond's administration, a Reorganization Commission was appointed which recommended and prepared legislation to consolidate the South Carolina State Library Board and the old State Library into a new and modern State Library agency. The legislation was ready for introduction in the 1951 session of the General Assembly but the Governor left office in January of that year and the legislation was never introduced. It was not until 1955 that another attempt to effect the reorganization was attempted. Again the effort failed but in 1969 during Robert McNair's administration legislation to establish the South Carolina State Library by consolidation of the State Library Board and the old State Library was enacted. The new South Carolina State Library was given all the powers and duties of a general state library.

Anticipating that the third attempt at the establishment of a modern state library would be successful, the State Library Board had planned the building which had been authorized for it and which was then under construction to house a state library program. Immediately upon establishment, the new South Carolina State Library occupied the handsome state library building which was dedicated on February 18, 1970.

Since its establishment the South Carolina State Library has served as the center for interlibrary loan service to the public and institutional libraries in the state. Through this service, the expensive and the highly technical book is available to the patron of even the smallest library. Financial assistance has been provided to county libraries in developing reference service through special projects in this area including the Carolina Materials Project which supplied one library in each Congressional district with either the original or reprints of 150 essential books for the study of South Carolina history. Special grants have also been made to libraries serving a metropolitan area in order to assist them in building up a strong central reference collection for the use of the people in the service area.

With funds under the Library Services and Construction Act, it has been possible since 1966 to establish and improve libraries in State-supported institutions. Today all State institutions have well developed programs tailored to meet the needs of their particular clientele.

When the State Library Board was established there was no service for the blind and physically handicapped beyond that available from the Library of Congress in Washington. Through persistent efforts, funds were finally secured in 1961 to provide this service through a regional library with North Carolina. In 1973 South Carolina was able to establish its own central library for the blind and physically handicapped. This library now serves the entire state with nearly 7,000 registered borrowers.

Home Rule legislation enacted in 1975 mandated the reorganization of county government. Under new Article VIII of the Constitution local legislation relating to county government could no longer be enacted and since all but one of the county libraries had been established under separate local acts of the legislature, the question immediately arose as to the security of the existing county public libraries and of their continuation under the new county council form of government. To resolve this question and guarantee the continued operation of the libraries under legally appointed boards, the State Library sought the assistance of the Public Library Section of the South Carolina Library Association in drafting new legislation to replace local library laws. The new legislation was enacted in 1978 providing for the establishment by the county councils of county library systems, providing for the powers and responsibilities of county libraries and the library's governing body on a uniform basis. The establishment of county public libraries was made mandatory by this legislation.

The South Carolina State Library provides all the services of a general state library. In its fifty years of service to the State, great improvements have been made in all branches of library service. The extent of service is excellent; the great need is improvement in depth — larger book collections and more staff to serve the public.

Highlights of 1981-82

According to a Chinese proverb, "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step." Planning for a statewide bibliographic network is still focused upon the first step, building a state data base. Since state funding was not available to implement the full recommendations of the network feasibility study completed by Metrics Research Associates in 1981, federal funds were used to underwrite projects which would contribute to the long-range goal. Library Services and Construction Act grants assisted Greenville, Charleston, Anderson, and Abbeville-Greenwood county and regional libraries in becoming members of the Southeastern Library Network, bringing to twenty-eight the number of SOLINET libraries in South Carolina. The Cooper Library of the University of South Carolina received the first of a planned series of grants to aid in the retrospective conversion of library holdings to the SOLINET data base. The State Library's own RECON project continued, with some 46,000 titles having been added to the data base. AACR2 changes in the catalog are being made simultaneously with the RECON. Subcommittees of the Task Force on Library Automation and Networking worked on specifications for automated circulation systems, plans for a union list of serials, and interlibrary cooperation plans for school library media centers. At the request of the Task Force, a committee of the South Carolina Library Association revised the state Interlibrary Loan Code.

Passage of the long-awaited state documents depository legislation, Act 348 of 1982, made the State Library the official state documents depository, mandated the deposit of publications by all state agencies, and authorized the establishment of a system of regional depositories in existing libraries. The General Assembly also authorized the State Library to initiate on-line computer assisted reference service in 1982-83. In September 1981, the State Library extended its interlibrary loan services to college and TEC libraries throughout the state. It also became a part of the Library of Congress' Cooperative Reference Program, whereby reference questions from South Carolina citizens are routed from LC to the State Library.

All libraries in the state were affected by state and national economic developments. State budget cuts and reductions in force caused difficulties for all state-supported libraries, especially state institutional libraries, and caused the first-ever mid-year reduction in State Aid to public libraries. Uncertainty and delays characterized federal library programs, with proposals for zero funding and attempted impoundment and rescission eventually being overridden by Congress. Librarians, library trustees, and users responded to these events with an unprecedented showing of support for libraries and much legislative activity. A successful Legislative Day on February 10, 1982, and many direct contacts with members of the General Assembly helped maintain State Aid at 75¢ per capita for 1982-83 and also resulted in passage of the Harvin Amendment which added $100,000 to the State Library's book budget. South Carolinians lobbied for federal library funding, the "Free Matter for the Blind" mailing privilege, and the library postal subsidy through regional meetings with Congressmen during the Easter recess, participation in the ALA Legislative Day in Washington, and a "3 + 3" telephone and letter writing campaign.

The Battelle Institute evaluated the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped as a part of the standards project of the Library of Congress. The report gave the library high marks for service but confirmed the inadequacy of the present building. The Budget and Control Board offered a long-term solution to space problems by allocating 25,000 square feet for library use in the Mount Vernon Mill building, future home of the State Museum.

The Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse was implemented, with the publication of a catalog, acquisition of new materials, and publicity to inform potential users of the service. The Great Global Getaway Summer Reading Program was launched in forty-four counties with considerable fanfare. The State Library provided workshops on storytelling and computer literacy for public library personnel, on basic grants for Foundation Center users, and on census data for libraries and planning districts participating in the State Data Center.

The State Library Board

The South Carolina State Library is an independent state agency governed by a library board of seven members named by the Governor, with one member from each Congressional District and one from the State-at-large. Act 317 of 1980 changed terms of board members from four to five years and reestablished staggered appointments. The term of the Fifth District member expired June 30, 1981, and Governor Richard W. Riley appointed Mrs. Margie King of Chester to succeed Mrs. Mildred T. Foster of Gaffney. The term of the member-at-large, Mrs. Mary Frances Sinclair of Columbia, expired June 30, 1982. She will be succeeded by Mrs. Jean Galloway Bissell.

READER SERVICES

The Reader Services Department provides assistance in the use of the reference and information resources of the State Library. Members of State government and State agencies make direct use of the library's resources. Citizens of the state have access to the library's services through their local library.

Reference and Information Service to State Government

1971-72 was the State Library's first full year of information and reference service to State government agencies and employees. During the intervening decade, the service has expanded into a primary source of information and materials used by State government personnel to assist in the efficient planning and implementation of programs which benefit the citizens of the state. Circulation statistics show the tremendous increase in the use of the State Library:

	1971-72	1981-82	Percent Change
Book Circulation to State Personnel	4,369	21,695	+369%

A staff of professional reference librarians works closely with State personnel to provide information and assist in research. Reference questions range from requests for specific information such as addresses and biographical data to detailed research subjects such as health care planning for rural areas. The growth in the number of reference questions answered is impressive:

	1971-72	1981-82	Percent Change
Reference Questions Answered for State Government Personnel	1,165	5,927	+ 408%

The State Library's collection of books, journals, microforms and government documents has been strengthened, particularly in the areas of political science, human resource development, social sciences, criminal justice, planning, and current affairs. The collection is continually updated by the purchase of new materials which reflect new directions in state government research. The State Library staff works closely with State agencies to identify items to be purchased and placed in the collection. This cooperation provides a centralized collection of materials available to all State employees and reduces unnecessary duplication of expensive materials in various State agencies. To inform State personnel of new publications, the State Library publishes and distributes monthly New Resources, a selective listing of items recently added to the collection. The State Library houses several specialized collections which provide extensive information on major topics. The Education Resources Information Center (ERIC) contains more than 210,000 documents on microfiche and is the major source for information on all phases of education. The collection is used extensively by educators, planners, and students. The Service Center for Aging Information (SCAN) developed in cooperation with the South Carolina Commission on Aging, provides access to major studies in the area of gerontology. The State Library receives documents from the National Criminal Justice Reference Service Institute in the area of criminology. As part of a cooperative program with the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education from 1980 to 1982 the State Library developed an extensive collection of energy research materials.

The State Library is participating with the South Carolina State Data Center to provide convenient citizen access to publications of the U. S. Bureau of the Census.

The Foundation Center in New York has named the State Library as the regional depository on grantsmanship and private foundations. The collection is an excellent source for individuals and organizations seeking grants from philanthropic foundations and receives extensive use by grant seekers from around the state.

In June 1982 the State Library and the Foundation Center sponsored a statewide seminar for 125 people on the techniques of fundraising with emphasis on the research materials available at the State Library.

During the year, the State Library began participating in the reference correspondence referral program of the Library of Congress. Under this program, the Library of Congress refers questions which it receives directly from South Carolinians to the State Library for processing. The purpose of the program is to encourage use of local library resources and to relieve the burdens placed on the Library of Congress.

Legislative Reference Service

Since 1974 the State Library has provided special information services for members of the General Assembly. A librarian from the State Library works closely with legislators and committee researchers to identify research needs. The reference staff from the State Library is available to either perform the needed research or to direct individuals to the best source of information. Some legislators familiar with the service telephone the library directly with their requests. In the past year, legislators and their researchers borrowed 805 books and submitted 341 reference questions. The State Library provided free of charge 3,145 pages of photocopy in response to reference questions and approximately 3,500 pages of photocopy through the USC Law Library. Due to funding cutbacks, the State Library ceased supplying free photocopy through the Law Library effective February 15, 1982.

Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service

The State Library functions as the central unit of a statewide interlibrary loan network designed to supplement and coordinate library resources in South Carolina. The Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service, drawing on the research collection of the State Library, works with local libraries to supply South Carolinians with materials and information not available in their own communities. Public and state institutional libraries have direct access to the State Library via an In-WATS telephone service which allows interlibrary loan requests to be submitted and processed rapidly. To allow librarians to determine the holdings of the State Library as quickly as possible, a microfilm copy of the library's catalog has been placed in 38 public libraries throughout South Carolina. The State Library has also regularly distributed a list of its periodical holdings to public and academic libraries within the state.

Since no single library can supply all materials required by its patrons, the State Library has acquired sources necessary to access collections within the state and the nation. For most technical and comprehensive requests requiring location of materials either in state or outside South Carolina, the library makes use of various union catalogs and the resources of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET). SOLINET provides on-line access to a computerized data base of over 8 million items held by more than 3300 libraries. The State Library uses this data base to verify title locations and to receive requests through the Interlibrary Loan Subsystem from the other member libraries.

To encourage better use of the State Library's reference service by South Carolina libraries, the Interlibrary Loan Librarian made 6 field trips to local libraries and met with 6 county librarians to discuss interlibrary loan procedures and techniques.

In September 1981, the State Library, which is committed to the concept of resource sharing among all types of libraries in this state, began providing expanded interlibrary loan service to South Carolina academic libraries. In keeping with its goal of encouraging library cooperation, the State Library began filling book and periodical requests and providing location information to academic libraries throughout the state. An interlibrary loan manual for academic and special libraries was compiled and distributed to ensure that participating libraries had correct information on State Library policies and procedures. This expanded loan service was initiated on a trial basis for the period of one year to determine the cost, staff time requirements, and use of the service by academic libraries. A questionnaire was distributed at the end of the academic year to participating libraries. Those responding to the questionnaire indicated their satisfaction with the new service and their wish to see it continue. A total of 1,964 books and 1,083 pages of photocopy were provided by the State Library to academic libraries in 1981-82.

During 1981-82, the Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service received 5,029 In-WATS calls, answered 5,493 reference requests, and supplied a total of 24,167 books and 18,667 pages of photocopy in response to interlibrary loan requests.

Government Documents

Government documents, the official publications of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government, form the core of information the State Library collects about the United States and South Carolina governments. Subjects covered by documents range from how to grow blackberries to how to safely transport nuclear waste; therefore they are as useful to consumers seeking general information as to researchers seeking detailed information.

The State Library has been a federal depository library since 1970. The depository system, operated by the U. S. Superintendent of Documents, enables the Library to receive selected federal documents free of charge. During 1981/82, 4,963 paper documents were added for a total of 55,465. Reflecting economy measures at the federal level, 10,240 pieces of microfiche were received and added for a total of 17,907. The number of microfiche received is a 75% increase over the number for 1980/81.

The preservation and availability of state documents in libraries has been a concern of librarians and researchers in South Carolina for many years. The State Library, the South Carolina Library Association, and librarians throughout South Carolina sought legislation for ten years to allow for the systematic collection and distribution of state-generated information. With the passage of Act 348 of 1982, the State Documents Depository Act, the South Carolina State Library became the official depository of state publications with the authority to establish a system of subdepositories within existing libraries in South Carolina. Depository libraries will be designated and documents distribution will begin in 1982-83.

During 1981/82, the State Library added 2,353 state documents for a total of 27,367. The Checklist of South Carolina Publications is issued annually by the State Library, listing publications of state government and agencies received by the State Library during the fiscal year.

Library Network Development

The emergence of computer technology offers libraries the capability of automating many library operations. The acquisition, cataloging, and circulation of library materials are labor intensive processes, and libraries are turning to automation in order to efficiently organize and provide access to the extensive amount of material being generated in what has been termed the "Information Age." The computerized data bases which are developed through library automation offer the means for libraries to access holdings of other libraries rapidly. As a result, libraries are joining together in cooperative networks at the local, state and national levels. In South Carolina, the State Library plans to develop a statewide network of libraries utilizing a computerized data base which will provide effective access to the holdings of libraries around the state. The development of a network would enable any South Carolinian to draw upon the holdings of the state's libraries through the local library. Additionally, a computerized library network would provide the means for cooperative collection development among major libraries and would permit increased sharing of resources among these libraries rather than needless duplication of expensive research items.

In 1979, the State Library organized the South Carolina Task Force on Library Automation and Networking composed of representatives of public, academic, school and special libraries. The Task Force is charged with the responsibility of making recommendations concerning library automation activities which will assure the maximum use of existing systems and the orderly development of future systems compatible with each other. During the year the Task Force met twice to review the results of the network feasibility study which had been prepared by a private consulting firm, Metrics Research Corporation of Atlanta. The study which surveyed all types of libraries in the state concluded that a network based on computer technology is feasible for South Carolina. The study outlined the following benefits of a statewide library network:

- improved use of information resources within South Carolina and reduction of the out-of-state expenditures for information purchases and documents loans;
- improved access to information resources, both inside and outside the state, by all residents and industries in South Carolina;
- increased control over the applications of technology through coordinated planning for compatible systems;
- improved professional development of information workers in South Carolina through a human resource network; and
- overall improved information service to South Carolina residents through the combination of all of the above benefits.

The study further recommended a five-year phased approach to the establishment of a statewide network. Since state funding which is required for this development has not been secured, the State Library continues working with the Task Force on Library Automation and Networking to perform research and make plans which will lay the groundwork for the development of the network.

Many of the state's libraries presently belong to the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET), one of the major regional library networks in the country providing cooperative cataloging and location services. Participation by these libraries in SOLINET provides the basis for development of a State Library network. To encourage additional membership of South Carolina libraries in SOLINET, the State Library has used LSCA Title III grants for the establishment of SOLINET clusters and additional SOLINET memberships by South Carolina libraries. The SOLINET cluster arrangement enables two or more libraries to share a common computer terminal, thereby reducing costs and permitting smaller libraries to benefit from automation. The Spartanburg cluster (Wofford College, Converse College, and Spartanburg County Library) and the Florence cluster (Florence-Darlington TEC, and Florence and Darlington County Libraries) completed the second year of a three-year project in March 1982. A third cluster in Greenwood composed of Lander College and Piedmont TEC completed the first year of operation of a three-year demonstration in January 1982. During the year this cluster was expanded to include the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library which will become a participating member in August 1982. In general, the libraries participating in clusters benefitted from improved quality of cataloging, reduced staff involvement in routine operations, and increased accessibility to library resources. Since participation in SOLINET contributes to the establishment of a computerized data base, the State Library has made grants to permit the Anderson County Library, the Charleston County Library, and the Greenville County Library to participate in SOLINET. Another aspect of data base development is the conversion of book holdings owned prior to participation in SOLINET into machine readable format. This process is known as retrospective conversion. Grants have been approved to Clemson University, the University of South Carolina, and the Richland County Public Library to assist in their retrospective conversion projects.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

The Technical Services Department coordinates the selection, ordering and processing of all materials for the State Library collection, including audio-visual materials and large type books for the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The book stock is a one copy, non-fiction collection, except for South Carolina titles. It includes periodicals and newspapers in both paper and microfilm and services such as ERIC in microfiche. There are separate collections of both federal and state documents. Principal additions during the year are as follows:

Item	Additions	Total
Books	3,618	162,738
State Documents	2,353	27,367
Federal Documents in print	4,963	55,465
Federal Documents in microfiche	10,240	17,907
Microfilm reels	641	11,529
Microfiche	27,083	238,500

Being a member of Southeastern Library Network, a computerized network of libraries affiliated with the national network, OCLC, Inc., has made it possible to continue input of our retrospective holdings into the data base. The number of retrospective titles added this year was 25,952 bringing the two year total to 46,275 titles. Increased requests for these older titles have been noted by Interlibrary Loan.

The complete list of South Carolina State Library Periodical Holdings was again updated to include all holdings since the previous year's edition. This list is distributed to State agencies and to public and academic libraries throughout the state. Likewise all cataloged state documents for the year were entered in the Checklist of State Documents, an annual publication.

The Book Selection Committee reviewed the Book Selection Policy statement and the Gift Policy statement, which were revised in 1979. The criteria for the South Carolina Collection was more closely defined. This is an annual review to keep the policy statements current with the state's needs.

FIELD SERVICES

The Field Services Program is designed to extend and improve public library service throughout the state. The library development arm of the State Library is made up of a team of six consultants, including four generalists and specialists in children's services and film services. This team serves as liaison between the State Library and thirty-nine county and regional library systems which provide service to all of the state's forty-six counties. The nature of the work which these consultants do with local libraries depends upon the level of library service in the system and on the training and experience of the individual librarians.

In general the Field Services Program serves as a catalyst for improvement. The role of the Field Staff is to assist librarians, trustees, and citizens in determining the library needs of the community and ways to meet those needs; to provide in-service training on a one-to-one basis, in meetings, and through statewide workshops; to explore solutions to local problems with library directors and boards; and to provide ideas and information on diverse topics such as construction, staff development, and budget presentation. It is the responsibility of the Field Staff to supervise the administration of State Aid and to monitor grants-in-aid under the Library Services and Construction Act. In the latter case, they assist local librarians with needs assessments and in developing grant applications to address weaknesses. During fiscal 1981-82, the Field Service Librarians:

- worked with 39 systems serving 46 counties of the state;
- made 277 field trips;
- attended 79 local library board meetings;
- monitored library budgets including approximately $11 million in local funds;
- administered $2,288,173.01 in State Aid grants to public libraries;
- supervised LSCA projects providing approximately $467,740 in grants-in-aid;
- represented the State Library at local, state, and national conferences, conventions, workshops, professional associations, building dedications, civic organizations, and other state and local meetings;
- provided recruiting, placement, and training services for public librarians.

State Aid for Public Libraries

Recognizing the State's responsibility for the support of public libraries as part of South Carolina's total educational and cultural program, the General Assembly appropriated $2,339,406 to the State Library for distribution in 1982 — at 75¢ per capita — to county and regional libraries. A mid-year 2.19% reduction ordered by the Budget and Control Board cut $51,232.99 from this amount; individual library reductions ranged from $128.07 to $4,728.97.

To participate in the State Aid, program public libraries must be legally established, provide county-wide library service, maintain levels of county funding, and meet certain standards of service. The regulations under which the State Library administers the State Aid program ensure that state funds will not replace local funds and that these funds will be used to achieve a higher standard of public library service in every county of the state. Qualifying libraries may use State Aid funds to supplement staff salaries, to purchase books and audio-visual materials, to purchase or lease equipment, and to operate and maintain bookmobiles — all vital in meeting the people's informational and recreational needs.

During FY 82 librarians, trustees, Friends, and other users worked hard to better inform the General Assembly of the importance and needs of public libraries and were successful in maintaining State Aid at 75¢ per capita for FY 83 and in obtaining an additional $100,000 for the State Library's materials budget.

Federal Aid to South Carolina Libraries

The purposes of the Library Services and Construction Act include the improvement and extension of public library service, the improvement of library service for certain priority groups, the construction of public library buildings, the strengthening of state library agencies, and promotion of interlibrary cooperation among all types of libraries.

Federal aid is used in South Carolina to supplement and reinforce State Aid to libraries, to provide the incentive for improved local support, and to provide a better level of service for all South Carolinians. A major objective is the extension of service to the unserved and the inadequately served. All forty-six counties in the state now have legally established unified county library systems providing every South Carolinian with access to public library service.

Title I of LSCA provides for improved service to public and institutional libraries and to certain segments of the population. LSCA grants-in-aid have been used to strengthen book and periodical collections, to initiate new programs of service, and to improve the level of service in existing programs. The quality of library personnel has improved because of the recruitment of new staff and the continuing education of existing staff. With the help of LSCA funds, libraries are reaching out to help the culturally disadvantaged, the functionally illiterate, the elderly, the handicapped, and isolated people who need special services. LSCA also provides grants to improve library service in state-supported institutions.

For a ten year period, 1964-1973, LSCA Title II provided monies for public library construction. This title has not been funded since 1973.

Title III programs have helped promote interlibrary cooperation and resource sharing. LSCA has contributed to improved communications, bibliographic access, interlibrary loan, in-service training, study and planning. Current Title III projects are designed to contribute to the long-range goal of establishing a state bibliographic network. The building of a statewide data base will help eliminate expensive duplication of materials and will make the state's library resources available to all South Carolinians.

Failure of Congress and the Administration to agree on budget levels for FY 82 delayed the receipt of LSCA funds. When finally released the State Library received $869,777 for Title I and $167,312 for Title III (96% of FY 81 funding.) Implementation of the Annual Program was made difficult due to the funds being released on a piecemeal basis. The outlook for FY 83 is guardedly optimistic with the Administration recommending zero funding and Congress leaning toward funding at the FY 81 level.

Continuing Education for Librarians

The South Carolina State Library has consistently supported a program of continuing education designed to provide for the training and development of public and institutional library personnel at all levels — professional, pre-professional, and clerical — and to inform public library trustees about all areas of public library service. Grants are awarded to attend conferences, workshops, and seminars as well as academic courses in librarianship. During 1981-82, grants were awarded to three pre-professional librarians representing two county libraries and the State Library to attend courses in foundations of library and information programs, administration, and cataloging and acquisitions.

Four professional librarians received grants to attend seminars on the following topics: A Positive Approach to Discipline, Personnel Management, How to Buy and Use Small Computers, and the Middle Management Seminar for Library Administrators.

State Library personnel also benefitted from attendance at workshops on public relations, collection development, the circulation marketplace, the use of statistics in public libraries, the use of video systems in public libraries, the use of census data, consumer health information, and school and library services to children.

In November, the State Library sponsored a legislative workshop attended by 118 public library trustees and directors which was designed to acquaint them with the legislative process, to aid in the statewide campaign for improved support for libraries, and to introduce the trustee manual.

In February, 39 library administrators attended a workshop on basic orientation to computers which was also sponsored by the State Library. Topics included introduction to data processing and the hardware and software of general purpose computers.

Library Service for the Disadvantaged

Due to the late receipt of FY 82 federal funds, FY 81 funds were used for grants to 14 county and regional library systems to establish, expand, and extend library service to the disadvantaged in South Carolina. The uncertainty of future LSCA funding made it necessary to award grants for projects to libraries which could assure their continuation with local funds only. A grant was made to assist one weak county library system develop minimum levels of service and financial support prerequisite for outreach services.

During the past three years, fewer small grants have been made in order that the projects funded might be larger and more effective. These grants enabled participating libraries to employ personnel, provide transportation, develop collections of reading and audio-visual materials, and purchase special equipment needed to implement service to the disadvantaged.

A sound filmstrip collection, available to all public and institutional libraries in South Carolina through interlibrary loan, was maintained. During FY 1982, 1173 filmstrips were loaned to county and institutional libraries.

Film Service

The State Library's 16mm film program supplements and strengthens the resources of South Carolina public and state institutional libraries. The films are documentary, informational, and recreational films for all ages and are used by public and state institutional libraries to meet the informational and recreational needs of library patrons. The collection includes some 1,267 films and is updated by constant additions. The catalog of the film collection is revised or supplemented periodically and distributed to all public and institutional libraries to assist them in using the film service.

In FY 82, a study was done to determine the feasibility of circulating films from the State Library's collection to community and civic organizations through county public libraries. In FY 83, five county libraries will participate in a year-long experiment in its expanded service. If this trial program is found to be workable for the participating libraries, the service will be extended to other county and regional libraries on an optional basis in 1983-84.

The Field Service Librarian for Audio-Visual Services provides in-service training, technical assistance, and guidance in planning, programming, and promotions for the staffs of participating libraries. A quarterly newsletter provides information about new acquisitions, local film programs, and suggested activities.

Since the film program began, the State Library has conducted three statewide and four regional film workshops. The number of libraries participating in the program has increased from 31 in 1974 to 48 in 1982. A total of 5,155 films were shown to an audience of 108,719 this year.

Library Service to Children

In order to provide better library service for children, the State Library assists public and institutional libraries in planning and evaluating services, developing stronger materials collections, training and orienting staff members, and promoting and publicizing activities.

During fiscal year 1981-82, over 26,000 children in South Carolina participated in the summer reading program co-sponsored by the State Library and public libraries to encourage children's reading. A three-session workshop on story-telling was held for children's librarians. The children's consultant made 61 field visits and worked with general field staff in supervising federal grants-in-aid related to serving children.

In January, 1982, the Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse Catalog was released. This listing of non-print materials on early childhood education and development available for loan from many state agencies and institutions will improve access to training materials for parents and those who work with young children. Materials to supplement previous holdings were purchased.

Public Library Construction

Although the State Library no longer has federal funds to aid in public library construction, it does assist local library systems planning new construction, renovations, or additions. Upon request, the Field Staff provides consultant service on library planning and reviews schematic plans, working drawings and specifications.

During 1981-82, construction was completed on two public library buildings: the headquarters building in York County and the Grand Strand Branch in Horry County. Renovation of Williamsburg County Library headquarters, including transformation of the old basement into a children's room, was completed in June. Plans were prepared for the new branch library building in Hardeeville in Jasper County; and schematic drawings were done for headquarters buildings in Union and Chesterfield. Written building programs for the headquarters building and the Dentsville Branch in Richland County were completed by the firm of HBW Associates. Studies were done by a library building consultant for Georgetown and Beaufort headquarters.

INSTITUTIONAL LIBRARY SERVICES

With emphasis on normality rather than pathology, libraries serving the residents of South Carolina's state-supported institutions are part of the educational, recreational, as well as the rehabilitation networks within the institutions. Recognition of this orientation to the world outside is basic to quality library service within the institutional framework. To assist institutional librarians in this work, the South Carolina State Library provides consistent support through the administration of federal grants and the services of a consultant.

The emphasis of the grant project for institutional libraries is collection development. Workshops for administrators and librarians, scholarships for staff development, participation in the State Library's film program, reference assistance and interlibrary loan services extend beyond money and consultant services to expand the resources of the individual institutional library. Thirty-five institutions maintained by eight state departments or agencies participate in this project, giving library service to nearly 21,000 residents. Sixteen of these institutions offer full-service library programs, while nineteen have branch libraries, bookmobile service, or book deposits. The Department of Corrections operates the largest program, serving sixteen adult correctional facilities from a central library division.

Institutions too small to maintain conventional library programs are served by a special project of the State Library. The South Carolina Crippled Children's Convalescent Center receives library service through a three-way contract under which the State Library awards funds to the Florence County Library to provide service directly to this Center. Three addiction centers and a vocational rehabilitation center annually receive collections of paperback books especially selected for their residents' use in therapy and recreation.

LIBRARY SERVICES TO THE BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

The South Carolina State Library, Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, has the responsibility for providing library services to any South Carolinian who is unable to read conventional print because of a visual or physical handicap. Books and magazines are available in recorded formats (disc and cassette tape), Braille, and large print. The South Carolina State Library administers this service in cooperation with the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The majority of readers utilize recorded books, and for them DBPH provides a sound reproducer (either a record player or a cassette playback machine). Braille service is provided under a contract with the North Carolina State Library. The large-type print collection has been made available with LSCA funds.

In fiscal year 1982 the library provided service to 6,570 individuals. A total of 126,785 books and magazines were circulated. Not reflected in these totals are many magazines received directly by the readers from the producers under contract to the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

The South Carolina cassette collection is made up of titles recorded by volunteers. It is primarily titles about South Carolina and by South Carolina authors, but other volunteer produced titles are included. This collection now numbers 230.

Because services are primarily via mail from Cayce, South Carolina, a large print newsletter and an In-WATS telephone line serve as the principal means of communication. Walk-in users at DBPH during fiscal year 1982 numbered 955 for an average of 80 per month.

Public libraries help promote the service by identifying potential users and assist new readers by demonstrating how equipment works and explaining how the program operates. In five county libraries — Anderson, Charleston, Florence, Greenville, and Spartanburg — the State Library maintains browsing collections of several hundred recorded books. Public libraries are encouraged to involve handicapped individuals in local programming. Since the State Library began providing this service directly in 1973 the service has continually increased. In 1973 the book collection consisted of 10,000 volumes. In 1982 13,883 books were added to the collection which now totals 113,574. In 1973 1,800 people were served; now 5,232 adults and 390 juveniles are served with an additional 948 being served via 237 deposit collections located in nursing homes, hospitals, schools, and adult day care centers.

It is estimated that 40,550 South Carolinians are potentially eligible for the service. The growth in readership is expected to level off at about 15,000. Growth in readership will require a comparable growth in the size of the collection. Long range plans call for the acquisition of additional space to enable DBPH to adequately serve its patrons.

DBPH continued its outreach efforts by 1) personal appearances and speaking engagements and 2) continued participation in the National Library Service's Public Relations Program utilizing public service announcements for radio and television stations.

LIBRARY LEGISLATION, 1982

Act 348, a State Documents Depository Act was enacted in 1982. The law designates the State Library as the official state depository of all state publications, with the responsibility for organizing and providing bibliographic control over them. The State Library will also distribute state publications to all libraries participating in a regional depository system to be established in FY 83.

All agencies, departments and state-supported colleges and universities will forward to the State Library at least fifteen copies of every publication it prints. Waivers of certain publications may be granted by the State Librarian.

The new legislation will ensure bibliographic control of state documents and make possible better access to such publications by citizens of South Carolina.

Governor Riley signs documents depository legislation, May 11, 1982.
